

Ius Commune Conference 2020

Workshop: Current Challenges of Shared and Transnational Administration

Friday, 27 November (14.00 – 15.30)

Participants

The aim of this workshop is to discuss a number of current challenges in the system of shared and transnational administration. The first panel will examine the actors and the procedures used in the systems of shared and transnational administration, with the case studies of pharmaceuticals and EU funds, and specific attention to the role of EU and national courts. The second and third panel will consider the question of accountability in the systems of shared and transnational administration, and will discuss this question with respect to migration and asylum, the activities of OLAF and the system of sanctions for violations of EU law. The third panel is concluded with a general reflection on the adequacy of the current accountability setup in the systems of shared and transnational administration.
