

Ius Commune Conference 2019

Workshop: Doctoral Round Table

Friday, 29 November (14.00 - 17.20)

Building: Nieuwe Valk

Room: Aula

Participants

PhD Pragmatics

Chair: Robin Gadbled (KU Leuven)

The aim of these roundtables is to provide PhD researchers with a forum to exchange and get insight on issues concerning the pragmatics of their research lives. This afternoon session is not intended to deal with the contents of their research, or with specific methodologies applicable to it, but to facilitate discussions on concrete aspects of their everyday lives as researchers which are not always the focus of structured exchange in other fora.

Four roundtables will allow for the discussion of four topics chosen on the basis of manifestations of interest by PhD researchers. In each roundtable a more senior academic with relevant experience on the issue has been invited to share their personal take on the topic with a short presentation. This will constitute the starting point of an open discussion in a relaxed format amongst all participants.

- | | |
|---------------|---|
| 14.00 - 14.45 | Elise Muir (KU Leuven)
Organising Sources for Effective Retrieval in the Long Term |
| 14.45 - 15.30 | Michael Milo (University of Utrecht)
Time-Efficient Balancing between Research and Teaching Responsibilities |
| 15.30 - 15.50 | Coffee break |
| 15.50 - 16.35 | Geert Van Calster (KU Leuven)
Finding a Good Balance between Writing the Thesis and Publishing on the Side |
| 16.35 - 17.20 | Michael Faure (Maastricht University)
Steps to Prepare for Life after the PhD |